DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 40-41, 47-50, and 54-60 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 40-41, 47-50, and 54-60 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wang (6675385).

As for claims 40 and 56, Wang teaches in a source of audiovideo data transmitted to a plurality of subscriber receivers, a system comprising:

(a) means (10) for providing a new page of content (updated epg data) to an existing carousel of pages at the source (epg database 10) of audiovideo data (col. 3, lines 55-60, col. 6, lines 49-60, col. 2, lines 9-16);

(b) means (14) for determining when the new page of content requires reduced latency (pages with high priority require reduced latency (col. 6, line 60-col. 7, line 21);

(c) means (14) for upon determining the new page requires reduced latency, placing the new page into the carousel more than once – col. 7, lines 1-7;

(d) means (14) for determining which pages in the carousel contain links to the new page (col. 3, line 65-col. 4, line 5);

(e) means (14) for modifying metadata for each page in the carousel containing links to the new page (col. 3, line 65-col. 4, line 5);

(f) means (14) for determining which pages in the carousel are linked to by the new page (col. 3, line 65-col. 4, line 5);

(g) means (14) for modifying metadata for the new page for each page in the carousel that is linked to by the new page (col. 3, line 65-col. 4, line 5);

(h) means (14) for determining when the carousel is ready for transmission (col. 3, lines 58-61, col. 4, lines 30-34, col. 5, lines 20-30) ;

(i) means (16) for repeating steps (a) – (h) until the carousel of pages is determined to be ready for transmission – col. 7, lines 1-20;

(j) means (16) for injecting the carousel pages onto a transmission medium (22-fig. 1) for transmission to the subscriber receivers (24) – col. 3, lines 30-36, fig. 1 ;

(k) means (24) for determining when page information in the carousel is changed (when new pages are received; col. 3, lines 58-61, col. 6, lines 49-60);

(l) means (16) for repeating steps (j)-(k) until page information in the carousel is changed (col. 7, lines 1-20, col. 2, lines 30-50);

As for claim 41, Wang teaches determining when page information in the carousel is changed comprises determining that a new page is provided for the carousel (when the receiver receives new pages, it determines that the page information in the carousel has changed – col. 3, lines 58-61, col. 6, lines 49-60);

As for claims 47 and 57, Wang teaches providing the new page of content comprises inserting a new page in place of an old page on a substantially regular basis, thereby providing a slide show effect from a perspective of a viewer that corresponds to one of the subscriber receivers – col. 4, lines 30-35, col. 6, lines 49-60.

As for claims 49 and 59, Wang teaches wherein page metadata for the new page includes an automatic link to another page such that when the automatic link is interpreted at a subscriber receiver, the subscriber receiver automatically displays the other page when available at the receiver – col. 3, line 65-col. 4, line 6.

As for claims 50 and 60, Wang teaches wherein the new page is placed in the carousel at spaced apart locations – col. 6, line 60-col. 7, line 20.

As for claim 54, Wang teaches:

Selecting pages of content for transmission – col. 4, lines 30-35; and

In a substantially recurring pattern, injecting the pages onto a transmission medium for transmission to a receiver, in which one of the pages of content is injected more frequently in the pattern than at least one other page such that a maximum latency for receiving the more frequently injected page is less than a maximum latency for receiving the at least one other page – col. 6, line 60-col. 7, line 20.

As for claim 55, Wang teaches wherein the page that is transmitted more frequently is transmitted in the recurring pattern at spaced-apart time— col. 6, line 60-col. 7, line 20.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
